To His Excellency, CHAS. FOSTER, Governor of Ohio:

DEAR SIR: The Trustees of the Ohio Institution for the Blind have the pleasure of presenting the forty-fourth annual report with the reports of the officers of the institution.

It will be seen by these reports, that the interests and education of the blind, for which the State of Ohio has made such munificent provision, have been promoted and fostered so far as the most exacting could expect.

The sessions of the school for the past year have been pleasant and profitable to the pupils, and the official management has been efficient.

Important improvements have been made during the past year. All the iron and wood-work of the exterior of the house have been painted, and the grounds have been improved and kept in order.

A part of the girls' dormitories have been papered and kalsomined under the skillful direction of Miss Brown, the efficient Matron. Closets have been built in a number of these dormitories for the better care of the clothing of the female pupils, thus partially meeting a want which has long been felt, and which we shall continue to feel until we are fully supplied with these necessary appliances. Our need in this direction is considered in the appropriation asked for under the head of repairs and improvements.

Last year we painted the iron and the wood-work of the exterior of the house; the coming year we shall need to paint and varnish the interior.

The pupils' rooms, not improved last year, have become so dingy from coal smoke, that they are in imperative need of renovation. When we consider painting and varnishing, papering and kalsomining, and building closets in so large a house, we think that the appropriation asked for repairs and improvements is not too large.

The furniture of this institution has always been very plain. Some of it was in use in the old house for years. We shall need new furniture the coming year to take the place of the old. Many of the carpets first put down in this house are nearly worn out. The bedding for pupils is a constant source of expense. The matting in the halls is subject to severe use upon our stone floors, and must be frequently renewed. We need additional chairs and settees for use in public rooms and pupils' dormitories. We should add to our laundry apparatus some new appliances to facilitate the work in that department.

The musical instruments of the institution are insufficient in number and inferior in quality from the severe use necessary in a school where music is made a specialty, and a piano or organ is used from nine to twelve hours a day.

We ask an appropriation for apparatus in addition to the sum yet in hand of last year's appropriation, which we intend to use as soon as we can determine what grade and kind of instrument will best suit our purpose.

Year before last there was a deficiency made in the fund appropriated to pay the expenses of trustees in attending the meetings of the board. That deficiency was not made up last year. We ask an appropriation for that purpose sufficient to cover the deficiency and the necessary expenses of next year.

For salaries and current expenses we ask appropriations based upon the same expectations in regard to price and number of inmates as last year; and we would call attention to the fact that in respect to these two appropriations, we have kept within the limits, and instead of having a deficiency, we have a surplus.

We would call the attention of the Legislature to the supply of gas for this institution. It has not been sufficient during the winter months since it has been furnished from the Penitentiary. The Institution for Deaf and Dumb suffers in the same way. Various remedies have been suggested and applied, but we still suffer for want of light. It has been proposed that a gasometer be erected on the grounds of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, sufficiently large to supply these two institutions for several days. This gasometer could be filled in the day-time, and thus furnish an ample supply for the night. It is thought that this will be a cheaper way to remedy the difficulty than it would be to put in a larger pipe from the State House to these institutions. We would therefore unite with the Trustees of the Institution for Deaf and Dumb, in the request that this or some better plan be adopted to relieve these two institutions of the difficulty under which they labor for want of light.

The attention of the Legislature has frequently been called to the subject of purchasing a small tract of land adjacent to the grounds of the institution. It is very important that this lot should be secured soon. The estate to which it belongs will sometime be divided up, and this tract sold in lots; houses will be built upon them, and stables and out-houses will be built within a few feet of the institution. Our boys will have no suitable play-ground. It is true, we rent the ground now for that purpose, but we cannot expect to do that always. We have about four acres of land farther east on Town street, which might be sold for enough to partly, if not fully, pay for the three acres which we desire to buy. If this suggestion should be followed, the amount of land belonging to the institution would not be increased, but diminished. We most earnestly call the attention of the Legislature to this matter so important to the interests of the institution.

The number of pupils at present under instruction is one hundred and seventy-nine, and each year adds to the number. We believe that the good people of the State desire that the blind should be well and efficiently instructed, and so far as possible fitted to take their places of responsibility among their fellow-men. We believe, moreover, that they are willing that increased appropriations should be made, if necessary, for improving the efficiency of this and other institutions, for alleviating the misfortunes of their afflicted children. The clearer our insight into the work of educating the blind, the more we see of the pupils and their teachers, and the results of the teaching, the more heart-felt our sympathy for the unfortunate ones, the more profound is our respect for the teachers and the higher our appreciation of their work. The blind have great claims on the seeing, and in the ratio, that the generous people of our noble State can be induced to give that attention to the subject needful to a proper comprehension of it, they may be relied upon to submit with cheerfulness to the necessary tax to secure for the sightless the best possible results. Ohio is the more honorable and influential in the sisterhood of States, for her public charities and the very marked success which has characterized them.

Other States, awakened to greater activity by the noble example of Ohio, are evincing increased and increasing interest in public charities, and are on the alert for the best superintendents, matrons, teachers and officers, and are offering superior inducements in the way of better salaries.]

We mention this merely as a matter of history, not that it should occasion any uneasiness to Ohio: she is abundantly able to properly remunerate all public service, and will not permit herself to be deprived of the necessary and valuable services of any public servant, rather than justly compensate that service. We call attention to the very full and interesting report of Mr. G. L. Smead, Superintendent of the Institution, who is thoroughly qualified for the position he occupies, having had an extensive experience as teacher and as superintendent. He combines with his experience progressive ideas, so that we feel warranted in saying, that he has few equals for his position.

We also call particular attention to the report of Mr. John McCarty, Steward of the Institution, who has watched the financial interests with great care, and has also been uniformly kind and courteous to all with whom he has been associated, always ready to respond to the demands made upon him by those for whom it has been his duty to care. We ask that the following sums be appropriated for the purposes named:

HARMON AUSTIN,
E. T. DRAYTON,
JOHN C. ENGLISH,
S. D. HOPKINS,
JAS. POINDEXTER.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Gentlemen of the Board of Trustees:

I herewith present to you the report of the condition and progress of the Institution for another year.

Our work has not been perfect, but by faithful labor on the part of teachers and pupils, good progress has been made, and the school stands well in numbers and in rank, as an educational institution.

Our pupils appreciate their opportunities for education, perhaps better than the average scholar in our public schools, because they realize more keenly that their future interests depend upon a faithful use of their time, when at school. They are also so immediately dependent upon the teacher for the instruction received, that they are inclined to improve the present opportunity, because they know, that for them, the means of obtaining knowledge when away from the Institution will be much restricted. Yet, with a portion of our pupils, we have to contend with indifference, laziness, and want of energy, which are a hindrance in all schools, and which always mar the results of the most efficient labor on the part of officers and teachers.

But considering all this, and keeping in mind the lack of stimulus to physical and mental exertion, inherent in the very condition of blindness, I think that the development and progress of our pupils is to be most heartily commended.

The following tables will show matters of interest concerning the number of pupils, causes of blindness, etc. :

Few changes have occurred in our corps of officers and teachers.

Miss Lottie Austin has been employed as teacher in the literary department, and Miss Mattie L. McKibben has been appointed to the position of assistant matron on the girls' side.

This institution was founded forty-three years ago. About eleven hundred pupils have enjoyed its privileges during that time. One million three hundred thousand dollars have been expended for the grounds and buildings of this institution, and for the maintenance of its inmates, averaging about thirty thousand dollars per year, and twelve hundred dollars per pupil. At least five hundred thousand dollars of this aggregate cost has been for permanent improvements still in existence, leaving eight hundred thousand dollars, which we may say have been used up in the work for which this institution was established. This leaves seven hundred and twenty-seven dollars expended for each pupil who has in the past been connected with the institution, and eighteen thousand six hundred and four dollars for each year. These sums of money seem large when we look at them in the aggregate, and we naturally ask, what return for all this expenditure?

Of the pupils present during the last fiscal year, about one-seventh would have been in the county infirmaries but for this institution. A few of this number will perhaps spend their lives in those infirmaries after their course at this institution is over. Allow for this one-seventh of the one-seventh mentioned above, and we have one hundred and thirty-five blind persons out of the eleven hundred who have been pupils here, who, but for this institution, would probably have spent their lives in the county infirmaries. To support these persons one year would have cost sixteen thousand two hundred dollars.

But the whole number would not have been in the infirmaries for the complete period of forty-three years. Take one-third of that time as a fair allowance, and we have two hundred and twenty-six thousand eight hundred dollars as the probable sum, which, but for this institution, would have been expended by the counties of this State in the support of blind persons.

The above sum is nearly one-third of the cost of sustaining this institution from its establishment to the present time.

At the reunion of our former pupils held last June, there were one hundred and ten present. Half of these were men, and nearly every one of them, and many of the women, had sustained themselves by their own exertions. Sixteen were supporting families upon their earnings. And most of the women who had not earned an independent support, were useful and valuable members of the home circles to which they belong, taking their share of the work, burden and care of the household.

But these one hundred and ten who were present last summer, were representatives of many more who are doing equally well in earning a livelihood and relieving the community of the burden of their support.

Still in spite of our best efforts, there are and always will be some who are unable to support themselves, or who are drones and will not do it; and the public must be at the expense of their support. But I venture to say that the industrious blind of this State, whom the instructions of this institution have enabled to earn a comfortable subsistence, have not only supported themselves, but also have earned enough over and above that, to support all the blind who have really been dependent upon our county infirmaries. It is true, their means have not been devoted directly to that object, but they have been added to the aggregate wealth of the State, and have borne their share of taxation for this purpose. It is fair to conclude, I think, that, while the pecuniary return has not, perhaps, been equal to the outlay in dollars and cents, yet there has been a large return to families, counties, and to the State, in services rendered, and in material wealth produced by the intelligent and industrious blind of Ohio, which ought to be a source of gratification to the people who have paid the taxes, and to the Legislatures which have appropriated the money for the maintenance of this institution.

But mere pecuniary results are not all. Every blind person who has sustained himself in the struggle for a livelihood, has obtained more than a living. By his manly independence he has overcome difficulties, and he is more of a man for it. He stands before his fellow-men the peer of those more fortunate than he, and perhaps more of a man than many in the same station in life, by virtue of the very misfortune which has stood as an obstacle in his way, in spite of which he has arisen to his place among his fellow-men.

Another very important fact we must not forget. Of these eleven hundred pupils who have entered this institution, the most of them would have been doomed to a life of ignorance and mental inactivity but for the privileges of this institution. And when we speak of ignorance and mental inaction in the case of the blind, it means more than with the seeing; for the blind have few resources in themselves, and external things and influences do not reach them so readily as the seeing. A blind child left to himself becomes moody and dull, sluggish in body and mind, a prey to suspicion and jealousy, unhappy himself, and a source of unhappiness to his friends. I do not say that this would occur in all cases, but this is the tendency. In view of this liability we can confidently assert that a large number of the blind of this State have been saved from such a fate, and made happier themselves and a source of happiness to their friends by the intellectual culture which this institution has afforded them. But more than this: they have not only been saved from a condition that it is difficult for us to comprehend, but they have become cultivated men and women, capable of filling an influential position in society, and of appreciating and enjoying the current events of the day: capable of reasoning correctly and justly upon the common questions of life, which take up the thought and attention of their fellow-men.

Think of a blind man moping away his time in mental and physical sluggishness, and the same man active and alert helping himself and helping his fellow-men, rejoicing in the knowledge he has obtained at this institution, and in the intellectual culture and force developed by the training which he has received here, and we get, by the contrast, some idea of what this institution has done in hundreds of instances for the blind of Ohio.

I think, too, that we can justly claim that the moral results as shown in the characters of those who have gone out from the institution, have been no small part of the compensation returned to this Commonwealth by the influence of this institution. It is true that character cannot be measured in dollars and cents, neither can we be sure of what might have been but for this institution; still, considering that we take children from their homes at the age of ten, or twelve, when they are most susceptible to moral influences, and keep them until the age of twenty-one, when their characters are in the main established, there must be a powerful influence affecting the characters of those under our charge for evil, or for good. From what we saw and know of those present at our late reunion, and from what we knew of many others formerly connected with the institution, we believe that a large number of our former pupils are not only sustaining themselves physically and mentally, but also are standing high in the estimation of their fellow-men as men and women of sterling worth of character.

It has been the aim of this institution to secure the physical, mental and moral results which we have been considering. In some instances we, no doubt, have failed. Some of those whom we have instructed have failed to support themselves, or have not developed in mind as we desired: some have made moral shipwrecks of themselves: yet looking upon the whole history of this institution, and upon those who have gone out from it, we can but think with gratification and gratitude that the money expended and the care bestowed upon the blind of Ohio have not been in vain, but have brought forth fruit worthy of the munificence of the State which is so grandly caring for its unfortunate children.

In August last the Biennial Convention of Instructors of the Blind was held at the Institution in Louisville, Kentucky. Matters of interest and importance were discussed in connection with the work of educating the blind, and worthy men and women from all parts of our country came together to compare views and mingle in social intercourse with each other. These conventions are a source of pleasure and profit. So many people animated by a common desire to be of service to the unfortunate can not come together without being of mutual benefit to each other, and our work will, I doubt not, be prospered all the more by the inspiration of such commingling of thoughts and feelings.

We include in this report a catalogue of pupils in attendance during the last fiscal year, a table which shows the expenses for each year from the beginning, and the number of pupils, also a table showing the officers and employes with the compensation of each.

There is also appended to this report the reports of the Physician and of the Steward.

We commend to your attention the financial exhibit, which, we think, is favorable. It will be seen that we shall probably have a little surplus instead of a deficiency in our current expense fund, which certainly is a credit to the care which has been used in buying the supplies for the household.

With thanks to the officers and teachers of this institution who have co-operated with me in the labor and care of this household, and to the Board for the intelligent interest they have taken in the institution, I respectfully submit the forty-fourth annual report.

G. L. SMEAD,

Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN.

To the Board of Trustees.

GENTLEMEN:—The institution has been blessed with unprecedented health this year. There was not a male pupil confined to bed one day during the year, and the ailments among the female pupils were trivial. The institution has been kept scrupulously clean, and the sanitary condition of the building has been carefully looked after by the officers.

With thanks to your honorable board and the officers for co-operation in my department, this is . . .

Respectfully submitted,

J. R. FLOWERS, Physician.

REPORT OF THE STEWARD.

To the Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN: In submitting my annual report to you, I present the usual showing of the yearly cost per capita for the maintenance of the inmates of this institution in a somewhat abbreviated form, but in a manner so comprehensive as to be clearly understood by the reader.

The amount disbursed from the fund for "Current Expenses," (after deducting total receipts from other sources than the State Treasury, and the estimated value of stock on hand), is $30,447 26

Amount of salaries for officers and teachers.....	9,788 26

The average number of pupils in attendance was 176, and the various members of the household, other than pupils, were about 60.

From the foregoing figures we compute the following results (omitting fractions), to wit:

Expenses, salaries included, per pupil.....	$228 61
" excluded, per pupil .....	173 00
" included, whole household.....	170 49
" excluded, whole household .....	129 00

The result, as indicated by these figures, is surely the best ever attained by this department. I point with some pride to the fact, and invite your comparison of this report with former ones.

The estimated value of stock on hand is as follows:

Coal and other fuel.....	$1,239 10
Hay and oats.....	60 00
Merchandise in store-room.....	301 94
Brooms and broom material.....	180 00
Beads and wire.....	25 00

It will be noticed that the supply of coal on hand is great. In view of the experience with coal-miners and dealers in past winters, I venture the prediction that were the aforesaid supply is exhausted, the wisdom of the investment will be proved.

In my monthly reports, and verbally, I have described, and it has come under your personal observation, to note the improvements made on the buildings and grounds during the past year. I will, therefore, make no recapitulation of the several changes so made, as I may trespass on the subject-matter of your own annual report to the Governor of the State. Everything intrusted in my care is to good condition, and in like condition shall I resign the same to my successor in office.

By the inscrutable ways of God, and by the immutable decree of a sovereign people, through whose votes the rulers of this country and its institutions are changed, I am overshadowed by the pall of approaching departure from your midst, in an official sense. I humbly accept the ultimatum, and I hereby record my appreciation and thanks for favors received at the hands of the members of your honorable body. I also extend to the efficient Superintendent, Mr. Smead, and to the other officers of this institution, my acknowledgment of their support and co-operation, and thanks for the same.

Very respectfully,

JOHN McCARTY,

Steward Institution for Blind.

Columbus, Ohio, November, 1880.

SUGGESTIONS.

To the Parents and Guardians of Blind Children and Youth:

The age at which it is best for children to enter the institution depends very much upon the circumstances of the families to which they belong. If they can be under good influences at home, can have the care of mothers and sisters, can take exercise in the open air, can be taught the use of words, can learn to count, and to perform some of the operations in arithmetic, and commence learning to read, it is unquestionably better for them to remain at home until they are ten, or perhaps twelve years old; but if they cannot receive proper care, and be taught some of these things, they should come at the age of eight or nine years. Those who enter at this early age need not necessarily attend every year until their pupilage expires. After learning to read, and making a good beginning in other studies, they may spend a year at home now and then, and, by a little aid from their friends, may be constantly improving, or at least be prevented from forgetting what they have learned.

The following are some of the things which may be learned at their homes, as well as after they enter the institution:

1. To count and number, and to add, subtract, multiply and divide, etc.

2. The multiplication table.

3. To spell common words, beginning with monosyllables.

4. The meaning of common words.

5. The letters in raised print.

6. Items of general information. Every blind child of six or seven years old should know the points of the compass, the name of the town, county and State in which he lives, the number of counties in the State, and of States in the Union, etc.

7. Facts in geography and history may be added as they can be understood.

8. Hymns, verses of Scripture, and select passages of prose and poetry, which they can understand, should be committed to memory; these will furnish them subjects of thought when they are alone, of conversation when they are in company.

9. Singing common tunes, or playing some simple instrument.
10. There is no reason why a blind child should not commence attending the district or other school with his seeing brothers and sisters, and take part in the exercises in spelling, mental arithmetic, geography, etc.; indeed, in everything except reading.

Blind children can learn everything which can be taught by conversation, and by giving them an opportunity to examine and handle objects, just as well as those who have sight; and there is no reason why their education should not be commenced as early as that of seeing children. Indeed instead of being neglected because they are blind, they should be taught with more care. During the last ten years, the parents of a number of blind children have written to me, as here requested, and then pursued the course above recommended. The result is that their children enter the institution with as much knowledge and discipline as they could acquire in one or two years of tuition here, and their future progress is much more easy and rapid than that of those who have had no such training at home.

I will furnish a copy of the alphabet, in raised print, to the parents of any blind child who will give me their names and post-office address, and shall take great pleasure in giving any information which they may wish in relation to books or other things pertaining to the instruction of such children at home, or in regard to their admission to the institution. For such information, please address G. L. Smead, Columbus, Ohio.

After pupils have entered the institution, it is important that they should be present every day while they profess to attend. There is but one session in the year. On account of the discomfort and the greater risk of health, etc., to the blind from traveling in winter, it has never been customary to have a vacation or recess at the holidays, and parents are earnestly advised not to encourage their children to think of visiting home at that time. We observe as holidays, Thanksgiving, Christmas, February 22d, and May day. These we endeavor to make as pleasant to the pupils as possible. Between Christmas and New Year the classes go on as at other times, and scholars can not be absent for a week or more then without great loss to themselves, and great inconvenience to teachers; much greater than would be the case with other scholars, because here the instruction is given almost entirely by the teacher, and the scholar who is absent can not make up the missing lessons by studying them from books. The only possible way is for the teacher to sit down and do all the work over again. If this is not done, the pupil must suffer the inconvenience of his loss during the remainder of the term.

It has been our constant aim to secure to our pupils the greatest possible amount of benefit from the limited time allowed them here. For this purpose, after our younger pupils have attended one or two years, they are advised to remain at home a year or more, and, if practicable, to attend school with their seeing brothers and sisters. Many have done this, and, instead of forgetting what they acquired here, have learned half or two-thirds as much as they would have done in our classes. Besides the advantage gained from their greater maturity when they return, and the consequent ability to understand better what is here taught, and to appreciate the valuable opportunities the institution affords, these children learn much by thus associating with other children; the tendency to imitate manners or habits peculiar to the blind is obviated.

The same plan has been pursued by our older pupils, especially those who expect to engage in teaching; and it has been found that by remaining at home a year or more before spending the last year of their pupilage, reviewing and digesting what they have learned, ascertaining their deficiencies, etc., they are able, when they return, to accomplish as much during the last year as they might have done in two, had they not allowed their minds thus to mature.

The blind are, for the most part, to spend their lives among those who have sight. It should be the aim of all who have the oversight of them to render them as much like the seeing as possible. They should be carefully guarded against forming any habits which will be disagreeable to others. The blind are always noticed by strangers, and their manners and habits observed more particularly than those of other persons; hence, it is a very great kindness to them to prevent them from acquiring unsightly habits, or to correct them if such have been formed.

Parents should be especially careful to prevent their boys from forming the habit of using tobacco; its influence on all who begin to use it before reaching maturity is especially injurious, but it is even more so to the blind than to most others. Be assured it is no kindness to them to be allowed to form any such habits.

Much effort has been used to make the opportunities here provided known to the adult blind, and to induce them to enter as soon as possible after loss of sight. The importance of beginning, as soon as may be, to labor as blind men, can not easily be over-estimated. Every month's delay renders it more difficult for them to learn, and makes them more awkward, to say nothing of the moral influence of idleness, and the feeling of helplessness and dependence which must attend the person who feels that he is doing nothing for himself or others.

It has been customary to encourage our workmen to locate in the neighborhood in which they are acquainted, rather than to look to the institution for employment, or to seek it in large towns. The wisdom of this plan is proved by the experience of every year. A village of a few hundred inhabitants, with the surrounding country population, will usually furnish employment for a broom-maker during the year, and the adjacent country will, in most parts of the State, produce all the broom-corn he will need, so that he can obtain his material at very little cost for transportation. For the last twelve or fifteen years hardly an individual of ordinary force of character who has pursued this course, and labored with perseverance and industry, has failed to make a respectable livelihood, while many have succeeded as well as the average of seeing persons.

The experience of many men warrants the statement that any blind man who has energy, and is disposed to be industrious, can in a short time learn to make corn-brooms, and become able to support himself. The machinery necessary to carry on this business costs only forty-five dollars. There are now in this State many blind persons who are earning from two hundred to three hundred dollars, or more, each year, instead of being supported in idleness, at a cost to their friends of two hundred to three hundred dollars per year.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

TERMS OF ADMISSION, ETC.

Applications for admission should be addressed to the "Superintendent of the Institution for the Blind, Columbus, Ohio," and should state the name, residence and post-office of the applicant's parent or guardian, and the supposed cause of blindness. Applicants must be between the ages of six and twenty-one years. Their time in the institution is regulated by the statute of 1879.

Persons over twenty-one years of age, if free from bad habits, can enter the institution for one year to learn a trade. Persons of this class have an opportunity to hear instructive reading in the evening; they are expected to be present at morning and evening worship, and to attend church on the Sabbath, like other pupils. A man of active mind, and some acquaintance with the use of tools, can learn to make corn-brooms in three or four months; some have done it in half that time. Those who have recently lost their sight, and who wish to learn a trade, should come here as soon as possible; every month's delay renders it more difficult to learn.

For residents of the State the school is free, no charge being made for board or tuition; but parents and guardians must provide their children with good and suitable clothing, and pay their traveling expenses, and should also deposit with the Steward a small sum for occasional expenses. For pupils residing out of the State the terms are one hundred and twenty dollars per annum, payable half yearly in advance.

The term commences on the second Wednesday of September, and continues forty weeks. The proper time for admission is at the commencement of the term.

Vacation continues twelve weeks--from the close of the term in June until the second Wednesday in September. Pupils are expected to spend the vacation at home, or with their friends.

When boxes or packages are sent to pupils, a letter should at the same time be sent by mail, stating distinctly how the same is to come, whether by stage or express, or as freight, and what route.

All letters to pupils should have, after the name, this address—

(Blind Asylum),

Columbus, Ohio.
